What do you want to achieve in doing this project ?

Jak Redenbach assists individuals and organizations achieve, or exceed, their goals. Through understanding their distinctive circumstances, opportunities may be optimized. Architectural services are tailored to the specific requirements of each client's needs. These needs may vary from requiring brief, but strategic, advice or expert opinion, to needing the full range of services to finance, design and build a residence, an office building or to audaciously pursue a client's objectives by unconventional means. 'Priority Number One' is achieving client satisfaction through the identification and application of the best options available.

What kind of experience will help you achieve your goals ?

25 years of award-winning professional experience are only the beginning. To achieve results beyond the usual 'state-of-the-art', strategic insight is required. Expert knowledge, applied to your circumstances or to your problem-solving requirements, may prove beneficial beyond your current expectations.

What strategies will best help you achieve your goals ?

The services offered by Jak Redenbach assist and coach clients in exploring their architectural and design opportunities. You may need a short-term strategic assessment for an immediate decision or for providing direction to long-term plans. As an architectural counselor, Jak Redenbach will assist your 'due diligence' investigations, will provide advocacy for your individual or group interests, will assist with conflict resolution, will explore issues related to rezoning, urban design, variances, public hearings, will assist with submissions to municipal advisory panels and commissions, will review policy documents, will explore forensic circumstances, will critique all aspects of the various procedures in the design and construction process, will assess your design's responsiveness in meeting your criteria, will analyze problems you encounter and will explore or identify unrealized opportunities throughout the entire planning, design and building process. Other avenues of architectural counseling remain for you to identify, as your personal or organizational objectives dictate. The coaching role is supportive in exploring your winning opportunities.

How do you find the right architect ?

The services of the firm, Jak Redenbach • Architect - Counseling, Advocacy & Architecture can be retained through a variety of options. Most flexible for the short consultation, is an hourly arrangement for services. This allows for a progressive and expanding approach, with increasingly comprehensive services as required and upon request. For more defined services, you may prefer a fixed-fee arrangement. Innovative business collaborations, or investment participation, can also be arranged where appropriate in the circumstances.
